Reach Dave @ www.FishingMagician.com or FishBoy@nwi.net "The Outdoor Insider"

Last Saturday was the busiest fishing day of the year, as thousands of anglers turned out for the opening day of the lowland lake trout fishing season. I had a great time visiting some of our area lakes and observing the fun people were having catching trout.

The weather was great on the morning of the opening of the lowland lake trout fishing season here in North Central Washington. I traveled to several of our area lakes to see how anglers were doing and shooting a video as well. My first stop was at the public boat launch on Blue Lake, where I visited with a WDFW enforcement officer while anglers were coming off the water.

The officer told me that participation was down significantly from previous opening days. There were large gaps in the line of RVs and campers along the highway, which is very unusual. However, the fishing on Blue Lake was excellent, with most anglers getting their limits of fat rainbows.

I then drove up to Park Lake, and it was busy. There were lots of boats on the water, the docks and shore line were lined with anglers and there was a big crowd at the cleaning station. On my way to Deep Lake one of the State Park folks mentioned the fishing was excellent on this lake and that if you wanted a very quick limit you should try Perch Lake, which is often ignored by anglers.

When I was setting up my camera at Vic Meyers Lake, I heard some excited yelling and laughter. One of the youngsters in the group had just landed his first fish ever! What a great experience. Fishing was also very good at Jameson Lake. There is excellent shore fishing access on Jameson, and I think more people were here on the opening day than last year.

Ginger and her crew at Jack's Resort will be having their famous prime rib dinners every weekend for a while, so call get a reservation, and be sure to get a slice of the wonderful pies. This week's photo is of a pair of anglers with their catch at Park Lake.

Anglers are eager to learn if the walleye are starting to bite on Moses Lake. When my friend Brian Nielson invited me to join him and James Leb-ow for a trip to the lake I jumped at the chance. We launched at Blue Heron Park as Brian wanted to hit several spots on our way up the lake, which was terrific, as I wanted to video some of the hot spots for walleye fishing on Moses Lake. We first trolled off the island near what is known as the Horse Ranch, and then just above it at the Rock Pile, which is a shallow ridge. A little further up the lake at the bend, we got our first walleye, but didn't get a bite on the flat above Connelly Park. We then drove all the way up to the very top end of the lake and trolled with side planers and bottom bouncers in the shallow water. This is typically where the walleye bite begins on Moses Lake, due to the shallow and warmer water. The water temperature was still just barely 60 degrees. We landed three walleye and missed some bites before the wind and rain drove us off the water.

I will try to keep an eye on the walleye fishery at the north end of the lake. Right now, the weeds haven't grown enough to be a problem, but that can change quickly when we get some warmer weather. There can be a narrow window for this side planer fishing in shallow water. When the weeds grow, and this end of the lake turns over it just isn't possible. The good news is that when this happens you can usually find good numbers of walleye in different areas of the lake.

My long-time fishing friend, Brian Anantamula, had his boat ready for the first trip of the season and wanted me to join him on Lake Chelan. We both had heard that the kokanee were running exceptionally large this year and wanted to see for ourselves. We launched at the State Park and began trolling just above Rocky Point. There were several boats trolling just below us, so we figured we were in a good area. We ran out two rods on downriggers and two on lead balls, and it didn't take long for the first rod to go off. I could tell it was a good one the way it fought, and sure enough when we got it netted it was clearly one of the 16 inch kokanee we were hearing about. We weren't really marking that many schools but still picked up some fish as we trolled past Rocky Point toward the Red Roofs. Then the bite died, and we wanted to try the area off the Blue Roofs. However, the batteries were too low, and we limped home on the bow mount. We did confirm that there are 15 and 16 inch kokanee in Chelan this season! I can't wait to go back.

The annual Trout Dery put on by the Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife kicked off on the opening day of the lowland lake fishing season.

There are thousands of prizes to be awarded to lucky anglers who catch a tagged trout on one of our state's lakes. I got a note from Travis Maitland, District Biologist for Region 2 out of the office on the Chelan Highway. He was pretty excited. He managed to get some real whoppers tagged and released into some of our area lakes, and he sent me a photo of one of them to prove it. He said the fish he is holding in the photo is probably 3 or 4 pounds, and there are others in the release that are 6 or 7 pounds. These big fish were released in Jameson Lake, Beehive Reservoir and Wapato Lake. If you go to the WDFW website and look up the Trout Derby you will find a list of other lakes that will have tagged trout in them, and there are instructions on how to claim your prize.

It was wonderful to see all the families out fishing on the lakes I visited. Fishing was terrific everywhere I went. So, get out there and join the fun!

DISCOVER THE MANY BENEFITS OF MODULAR HOMES

If you're shopping around for a new home that is also environmentally friendly, consider a modular build. Modular homes are highly customizable and are built almost entirely in a factory setting, saving both homeowners and builders time, effort and money.

Once the main modules of a new home are constructed — complete with attached walls, floor, ceiling, wiring, plumbing and interior fixtures — they are transported to the homeowner's chosen lot and placed on a permanent foundation by a crane. Each home is designed and constructed to meet all state and national building and fire codes, and a local builder does the final finish work.

Consider the following features and benefits of modular homes:

Modular Homes Are Eco-Friendly

Modular homes are green by their very nature. Assembly in an enclosed indoor environment allows them to fulfill key components of green building certifications, including the ICC 700 National Green Building Standard*. During modular home construction, material waste is reduced at the factory and the job site. As a result, the environmental impact on the land and the community is lessened. In addition, modular homes are often more tightly built and thus more energy efficient, which can result in lower heating and cooling costs for the homeowner.

Modular Homes Offer Flexible Designs

While most manufacturers have a portfolio of home plans to choose from, computer-assisted design (CAD) allows limitless design and customization possibilities when planning a new modular home. Also, modular construction allows for a quick turnaround between groundbreaking and occupancy. A typical modular house can be move-in ready in about 3 months. And more often than not, the finished product is indistinguishable from a site-built home.

Modular Homes Save Time and Money

Modular homes are designed and constructed to meet or exceed local building codes and allow nearly 90% of a home to be constructed offsite. This type of home is built in a controlled factory environment while the building site is also being prepped. Most work is done in the factory, so weather delays, missing materials and subcontractor no-shows are all but eliminated, saving time and money.

Modular Homes Offer Quality Construction

Homes in a factory setting allow for more consistent quality due to uniform construction processes, training techniques and inspections. Before leaving the factory, all homes are inspected by an independent, third-party home inspection agency. Once on-site, they are again inspected, this time by a local building inspector. As a result, these homes meet and often exceed all requirements of locally adopted building and fire codes.

EVANS FAMILY FINALLY BREAKS THROUGH FOR WVSO WIN

From NWSLM and NWMNS.com media

East Wenatchee, Wash. — When it came to the “Leonard Evans Memorial” race at the Wenatchee Valley Super Oval, the Evans family was a combined zero for third between Garrett, Jan and Stephanie.

On April 27 it all came together with a good car, a good driver, and a pinch of luck.

Jan Evans, the son of four-time Northwest Super Late Model Series champion Garrett Evans finally got it done for the patriarch of the Evans family, his grandfather Leonard.

The win makes the Evans family 2-for-2 so far in NWSLM racing in 2024 following Garrett’s win in the season-opening Apple Cup at Tri City Raceway.

Jan grabbed the lead from Kasey Kleyn, after a lap 124 restart, to lead the final twenty-six laps and grab his first career Northwest Super Late Model Series win and was followed across the finish line by Kasey Kleyn from Quincy, Spokane’s Dave Garber, Jason Jefferson out of Naches and Olympia’s Bob Presley.

The victory was in honor of Jan’s grandfather who was a huge supporter of WVSO and his son, grandson, and granddaughter’s racing programs. Jan himself had made four previous attempts but could only muster a best finish of fourth.

“It’s an honor for my family” Evans said. “We wanted to get this win for a long time.”

The strategy for success was a no-brainer.

“During the race I felt like I needed to save my tires and stay out of the wrecks,” Jan Evans said. In late model racing, sometimes you have bad luck and luckily, we had good luck this time.”

Earlier in the day, Evans set the AFRC Racing / Longacre Racing Products Fast Time with a lap of 12.792 seconds over the 15-car field. Spokane’s Haeden Plybon would grab the pole position however, as the top eight redrew for position.

In the reshuffling of the starters, Evans began the race fifth and was second by the time for first caution flag flew on lap 40. Evans would take over the lead on the restart with Kleyn right behind.

Following a caution the lap 84 restart saw Evans and Kleyn maintain their battle until lap 118 when Kleyn took the top spot on an inside move.

It wasn’t long before Evans got his break on lap-124 when the yellow flew and on the restart Kleyn and Plybon made contact. Evans took advantage of the mishap, grabbing the lead as Plybon retired to the pits and Kleyn restarted at the tail of the lead lap cars.

Evans recalled the crucial moment.

“I was hanging on the outside, and luckily, I was able to keep up with the No. 1 car relative to his right rear. The 55-car was on his bumper and wasn’t being patient, and he kinda’ wrecked him,” Evans said.

Evans took the restart leading Garber, Jefferson, Terry Halverson and Presley. Garber challenged for several laps before Evans pulled away.

Meanwhile, Kleyn was on the move getting back to fourth on lap 131 from seventh. He moved by Jefferson several laps later, and he took the runner-up position from Garber on lap 143. But time ran out for Kleyn.

As excited as Evans was in Victory Lane, Kleyn was equally disappointed in what could have been.

“I think I had the winning car, I feel like I had the race won,” Kleyn said. “Then I’m not sure what really happened, but we ended up turned around and put behind all the lapped cars.”

Still with 25 laps to go Kleyn had hopes of making up lost ground.

“We still had twenty-five laps to go, and we were able to get up to second. If we would have had a caution and got to start in front of the lapped cars, I think we could still have won it.”

The next event for the Northwest Super Late Model Series will be the Stateline Speedway 150 on May 18.

NORTHPORT ‘GRADER GUY’ CORY BELL KEEPS TRACK RACE READY

NORTHPORT, Wash. — There’s always work that goes on behind-the-scenes that is never seen, be it for work or play.

And when racers show up to have fun at Northport International Raceway on the next race day, May 4, few may know what went into making their track race worthy.

Cory Bell is maybe best known as the person who leads efforts at the track as promoter of the decades-old racing fixture in northern Stevens County. But he’s also the person who spends hours and hours in the cab of a road grader doing track prep.

When Bell is not working part-time for the town of Northport or as a mechanic, he’s probably at the track making sure the surface is race ready.

“I grade after every race then pack,” Bell wrote in a Facebook Message. “It is a loose track takes a lot of packing.”

Bell first puts water on the track and then has to wait for the right texture before packing. If not done the right way it comes apart, he said.

“I pack the track going opposite direction as drivers,” Bell explained.

With the help of volunteers Bell can now utilize both of the graders located onsite at the facility located on property owned by the City of Northport.

“I graded Monday (April 22) after races and then graded it back up to top and back down,” Bell said. “Took me all day yesterday,” he added.

Find out about Northport racing on Facebook.
