Sandpoint Organic Agriculture Center Research & Farm Field Tour

10881 North Boyer Rd. Sandpoint

Thursday, July 17, 10 a.m. to Noon (lunch to follow). Come learn about current organic agriculture research happening at SOAC and help shape the direction of future research as we grow our program in north Idaho. See our research and demonstration trials and learn about organic cover crop management in pasture and vegetable production systems, new field or bed preparation, rotational grazing with sheep and chickens, organic and transitioning to organic certification, and heritage apple and berry production. We also want to hear about research topics that are relevant to your farm or operation — come share your ideas and questions. The event is free, but registration by July 10 is required for the lunch. For more information or to register: 208-263-8511, bonner@uidaho.edu.

NOXIOUS WEEDS

What is a Noxious Weed? They are non-native plants that have been introduced to Spokane County through human actions. Because of their aggressive growth and lack of natural enemies, these species can be destructive, competitive, and difficult to control.

DALMATION TOADFLAX

(LINERIA DALMATICA)

This moderately branching perennial can grow up to 5ft tall. Light green to blue-green leaves are covered in a waxy layer. Snapdragon-like yellow flowers with a bearded throat and long spur. Taprooted; spreads by seed and adventitious buds on creeping, horizontal roots. Hand pull or dig young plants before creeping roots develop. The plant is not preferred by grazing livestock. Spray herbicides when plant is actively growing to provide long-term control.

Dave Graybill
"The Outdoor Insider"

It's been quite a week with all the news about the sockeye season on the upper Columbia. I was very glad I got to go before all the news hit. Rather than be frustrated I will be doing some other kinds of fishing. There's just too many other great fishing opportunities in the region.

I had a pretty incredible day of sockeye fishing with Austin Moser and his crew on the opening day of sockeye fishing on the Brewster Pool. I met the boat at 4:30 that morning and Austin pointed the boat to the top of the pool, where the Okanogan River enters the Columbia. He got all six rods baited up and dropped over the side at the appropriate depths. It took less time for first one rod, then a second and a third to start bouncing. While three anglers scrambled to pick up these rods, three more went off. We had six sockeye on in minutes of Austin putting our baits out. That flurry just set the tone, as we were hooking sockeye as soon as Austin could get the hooks rebaited. He was a blur in the boat, using two nets to keep up and stuffing fish into the cooler on ice. Everyone was yelling and pointing to rods that had fish on. We were all laughing and filling out our punch cards, while others landed fish. In an hour we had 24 fish in the cooler. The video I managed to shoot has over 12,000 views so far! This week's photo is of Austin with a dandy sockeye.

A lot of rumors have been flying around about the future of the salmon season in our region. The news release is out. I have included some important points here. For more details look for the recent e-mails from the WDFW or check the Emergency Regulations on their website. Priest Rapids Dam to Wells Dam: July 7 through July 8: Closed to salmon fishing. July 9 through Aug. 31: Open Wednesdays-Saturdays. Closed Sundays through Tuesdays. Salmon minimum size 12 inches. Daily limit two sockeye. Release all other salmon. Wells Dam to Highway 173 Bridge at Brewster: July 7 through July 15: Closed to salmon fishing. July 16 through Aug. 31: Open Wednesdays through Saturdays. Closed Sundays through Tuesdays. Salmon minimum size 12 inches. Daily limit two sockeye. Release all other salmon. Reason for action: On June 30, 2025, the U.S.

v. Oregon Technical Advisory Committee (TAC) downgraded the Columbia River sockeye run size from 350,200 to 183,200. At this reduced run size, the total number of sockeye available for harvest is approximately 12,800 fish (minus harvest through July 6). The number of sockeye available for harvest is subject to change based off future upgrades or downgrades to the run size made by TAC.

I mentioned earlier that I was busy shooting videos of some of the lakes in northern Okanogan County. I got that part of the job done and am still finishing the editing. I should have that done in a day or so and will post the finished videos on the Dave Graybill YouTube channel. I just recently finished shooting three sections of the upper Columbia River. I started in Pateros and showed the shoreline and the two launches that many anglers use to run up to fish the Brewster Pool. The next one was on the area above the Highway 173 Bridge to the mouth of the Okanogan River. I talked about how the Okanogan plays an important role in the Brewster Pool fishery. It dumps warm water into the cooler Columbia that creates a "thermal barrier" that keeps the salmon in the Pool. That's what makes the fishing here so fantastic. The last video was done on the Columbia from Pelican Point to Chief Joseph Dam. This is another area that has some great fishing spots for both Chinook salmon and steelhead, when we have seasons. It is also open now for trout until August 15th.

The last destination on my list of videos to do for the Okanogan County Tourism is on Rufus Woods Reservoir. I will be covering the whole length of the big impoundment, from Chief Joseph Dam all the way up to Grand Coulee Dam. What I will be talking about are the good fishing areas that anglers head for from either the launches above Chief Joseph Dam or the Grand Coulee Dam area. I will be talking about some spots that many anglers will be familiar with, like the Buckley Bar, the Ne-spelem Bar and the net pen sites. There are some other places I have fished with success that I will describe in the video as well. This is the time of year that I often fish upper Rufus Woods. The triploid rainbow trout that the Colville Tribe released this spring grow fast and some could be 3 or 4 pounds by now. As you probably know, Rufus Woods is best fished by boat. Shore access on the north shore, outside the boundaries of Colville Reservation is limited. Many are happy to pay the Access and Boat Launch fees for the quality of the fishing that is available.

I am eager to get up to Banks Lake. On my last trip we were catching a bunch of those small juvenile walleye on the sand flats or Clay Banks as some anglers call them. Then all of a sudden, we got three really big fish in a row. One was 22 inches, the next measured 19 inches, and the last one was a 25 incher that we released. We were trolling bottom bouncers and spinners, and the next time I go I want to spend more time pulling crank baits on side planers. I like the stretch around Rosebush in the Million Dollar Mile. I have had good success here, and we catch some whopper smallmouth while we are at it. If the walleye aren't biting, we can always run across the lake to the opposite side and fish for bass. That's guaranteed action. I am not sure you know, but there has been some major improvements to the launch at Million Dollar Mile. All new paving and a new concrete ramp. They even did some dredging of the launch bay. Check it out.

If you have been out boating by now, you probably have experienced some issues. When I need anything for my boat, and I mean anything, I just go to Bob Feil Boats and Motors in East Wenatchee. They always have what I need. Whether it's just an additive for my fuel, or whatever. Their parts department is amazing as well.

HISTORIC PHOTOS of IDAHO PANHANDLE

Automobiles

One of the first automobiles in northern Idaho was a 1902 Oldsmobile owned by Fred Landrus, pictured above. It was used primarily as a race vehicle. Most people in the early 1900s considered the automobile a novelty or a sport rather than a serious mode of transportation. That began to change in 1909 when Henry Ford put his famous Model T Ford on the market. By 1910 there were two automobile dealers in Coeur d'Alene. Bird and Leash was located at 512 Sherman Avenue, and the Lake City Garage was at 309 Lakeside. During WWI, cars and trucks had proven to be a reliable form of transportation. Following the war, Americans fell in love with the automobile, Kootenai County was no exception. By the early 1920s, there were seven automobile dealers, 13 garages and seven service stations in the county. Although far from ideal, roads in Idaho that were suitable for automobiles were improving.

"Going fast is your job...Telling people about it is ours...!"

JERRY RUTH, 'KING OF THE NORTHWEST,' PASSES AWAY

Ruth's career included the NHRA Top Fuel World Championship in 1973

By Phil Burgess, NHRA National Dragster Editor
(Reprinted with permission)

Jerry Ruth in his refurbished nostalgia top fuel car.

Ruth, dubbed the "King of the Northwest" in 1965 by a local sportswriter, ruled the nitro ranks in the region for years. Always a self-promoter, Ruth later joked, "When I won the world championship in 1973, I changed it to 'King of the World.'"

Ruth's first recognized Top Fuel car was in 1964 after previously campaigning a twin-engine gas dragster, and later added a Funny Car, and was successful in both, and was proud of it.

"People asked me if a Funny Car was harder to drive than a dragster," he said in a 2017 interview. "Not for me. They were both the same. I'm a natural driver. It's been my great calling. People asked me which car I liked best. That's an easy answer: whichever one could win."

From 1964 to 1972, Ruth dominated NHRA's Division 6, capturing eight Top Fuel championships and three Funny Car titles — two as a driver and one as a team owner. In both 1971 and 1972, he pulled off the rare feat of winning Division 6 titles in both Top Fuel and Funny Car, becoming the first driver to ever score victories in two Professional categories at the same event.

Ruth truly ruled the Northwest, winning the region's two marquee races — the N.W. Fuel and Gas Championship in Puyallup, Wash., and the Travel-Ons Fuel and Gas Championship in Arlington, Wash. — three consecutive years, but his influence reached far beyond his home turf.

In 1968, he claimed the prestigious Professional Dragsters Association (PDA)

Championship at Lions Dragstrip in Long Beach, Calif., and went on to win three NHRA national events, including the 1973 NHRA World Finals in Amarillo, Texas, where he clinched the NHRA world championship.

After getting knocked out by tire shake at the NHRA U.S. Nationals in 1979, Ruth commissioned Al Swindahl to build a revolutionary dragster cockpit for 1980, designed around a shoulder hoop off of a Funny Car for the roll cage. The style was quickly adopted by many in the class, and Swindahl became the 1980s' go-to dragster chassis builder.

"People told me it looked like crap, that it was ugly; I didn't care," Ruth said. "I needed to fix this thing or my career was over. I made Al rich and helped him realize his dream of a lifetime, to build a car for the big guns."

Ruth won the NHRA Mile-High Nationals that year and made the first mile-high five-second pass. That 1980 Denver win was the last NHRA victory of Ruth's career, and he retired after the 1984 season.

Though Ruth's racing career concluded then, his legacy as one of drag racing's most formidable competitors continues to resonate. He was a regular guest at the NHRA Northwest Nationals, where he would display and cackle one of his vintage front-engine dragsters.

Ruth is survived by his wife, Cindy, and predeceased by brothers Bill and John.

ANDREW TATE WINS SECOND STRAIGHT INDIANA GOVERNOR'S CUP

Madison, Indiana — July 6, 2025 — The 75th edition of the Madison Regatta concluded with great moments on and off the water, capped by the official H1 Unlimited driver qualification of Brandon Kennedy and a thrilling final that saw Andrew Tate and the U-91 Miss Goodman Real Estate claim their second consecutive Indiana Governor's Cup title.

Kennedy, at the helm of the U-6 Miss Madison, earned his Unlimited status in front of his hometown crowd on Saturday — a significant career milestone that electrified fans and added emotional depth to the weekend.

High winds altered the schedule, forcing the cancellation of Heat 3. The four-boat Governor's Cup final was held at 5:45 p.m., featuring U-8 Beacon Electric, U-9 Beacon Plumbing, U-11 FLAV-R-PAC, and U-91 Goodman Real Estate. U-27 Miss Apollo, although qualified, did not advance.

The final delivered a wild first turn in which Corey Peabody (U-9) hooked and was later disqualified for two one-minute penalties during the milling period.

The next stop on the H1 Unlimited circuit is the APBA Gold Cup in Tri-Cities, Washington, set for July 25–27. Seven teams are expected to compete: 1

U-8 Beacon Electric / J. Michael Kelly
U-9 Beacon Plumbing / Corey Peabody
U-11 Miss FLAV-R-PAC / Jamie Nilsen
U-12 Graham Trucking / Jeff Bernard
U-21 Go Fast Turn Left / Gunnar O'Farrell
U-27 Miss Apollo / Dave Villwock
U-91 Miss Goodman Real Estate / Andrew Tate

National High Points Standings (Through Madison)

U-91 Miss Goodman Real Estate / Andrew Tate — 1,225 pts
U-8 Beacon Electric / J. Michael Kelly — 1,130 pts
U-9 Beacon Plumbing / Corey Peabody — 960 pts
U-11 Miss FLAV-R-PAC / Jamie Nilsen — 925 pts
U-27 Miss Apollo / Dave Villwock — 655 pts
U-6 Miss Madison / Brandon Kennedy — 225 pts

UPGRADES, UPDATES AT MISSION VALLEY IN TIME FOR MONTANA 200

POLSON, MONT. (July 7, 2025) — The 34th running of the Montana 200 at Mission Valley Super Oval offers a few new wrinkles.

"It's pretty much the same but a little bit different format this year," said operator Tony Udem. "I know last year we were right on that edge of how many cars we wanted to allow, and I think we ended up with 31 cars."

After running that race Udem realized that's just too many cars on the 3/8th-mile tri-oval track so the 34th edition will feature 26 entries chasing $10,000 to win and $5,000 as runner-up.

Aside from the regular purse for the event sponsored by Missoula Chevrolet, some additional incentive awards are being offered, Udem explained.

"A sponsor came in and wants to sponsor another $1,000 for the hard charge awards," Udem said. It goes to the driver who finishes the furthest up from where they started.

There might be a an offer for either one of the top two qualifiers to go to the back and try to win it from there. "We'll see if anybody bites on that this year?" Udem said. That bonus amount has not been determined.

"I think it's going to take a little bit extra for somebody to do that because it's tough, tough race to to be back there and stay out of trouble," Udem said. "I know we have cars that are fast enough to do that in 200 laps. It's just a matter of staying out of the trouble that happens when you start with 26 cars out there," he added.

Following qualifying heats that puts 24 cars into the race, a last change qualifier will at a pair of slots.

"We did add Thursday back this year because we do have a lot of out of town teams coming," Udem said. "It's kind of an optional practice on Thursday that haven't been here before," he said, adding it helps trams adjust to a new tire.

In addition there's a driver's dinner down on the lake with live music. "That'll be fun," Udem said.

A Hobby Stock race with $1,000 to win will be part of the Friday program that includes qualifying. A similar payout is offered Saturday for the Legends class that serves as the support event the night of the 200.

"It gives those classes a chance to get on TV," Udem said.

"We will be live on Racing America Friday and Saturday night so it gives them a chance to get some TV exposure and get their sponsors on TV."

Both fans and racers will notice a variety of cosmetic changes and added amenities at Mission Valley. Included is a new wall with SAFER barrier that replaces old guard-rail. Mission Valley is the only paid oval in Montana.

"We added a pizza booth concession," Udem said. "We want to keep out kitchen from being overwhelmed." They will also bring in several food trucks just to give a variance and again to help out the kitchen.

Visit www.missionvalleysuperoval.com for further information on the Montana 200 and Mission Valley Super Oval. Pits open at 11 a.m., spectator gates at 5 with racing at 6 p.m.

RC CARS PREP FOR ROAR RACE

Radio control racers were in action last weekend at the Hank Perry Raceway at Sullivan Park in Spokane Valley as they prep for a major race at the track set for Aug. 8-10.

The ROAR race will be big, hopefully 250 entries, spokesperson Jamie Nash wrote in a Facebook message. "The ROAR regional race will have worldwide media cast through MOD Media, an RC media company.

Nationally ranked drivers plan to attend, as do large RC companies. Further information can be found by visiting www.rccs.net.
