HISTORIC PHOTOS of IDAHO PANHANDLE

Seiter's Cannery

Thousands of pumpkins were processed every fall at Seiter's Cannery in Post Falls from 1935 to 1969. Edgar Seiter and his wife Gladys purchased the Coeur d'Alene Cannery, which had operated in the old Coeur d'Alene Brewery building since 1918. In 1934 they moved the cannery to Post Falls and started remodeling buildings that had been used for years as a harvester factory. In addition to pumpkins, Seiter's Cannery processed cherries, beans, tomatoes, plums, apple cider and their famous apple butter.

Dave Johnson
"The Outdoor Insider"

It has been raining for days here in Leavenworth and that made the opening day of coho fishing on the Icicle River a miserable affair. There are other fishing opportunities in the region to explore, and if you pick a decent weather day, you can have some fun.

It was pouring down rain when I visited the public access to the Icicle River on the opening day of the coho season on November 1st. In spite of the nasty conditions there were several vehicles in the parking area near the handicapped fishing platform and anglers were spread out along the shore below it. I also saw two drift boats launch to float down river to some hard-to-reach from shore holes. I talked to an angler in the parking area and was told that several coho had been caught and released and that at least one was kept. While I was there, I saw an angler hook and land a fish. It was a nice sized coho and slashed and splashed in the stream before the angler could get a net under it. As many of you know, the warm water in the Columbia River kept many of the salmon that return to our area in the lower river. The recent heavy rains finally moved fish upstream and now there are fairly good numbers of coho in the Icicle. Anglers will have to use their own judgement about keeping fish. Some, but not all, of the coho are showing signs of being near spawning. Most of the anglers I observed were casting Blue Fox spinners instead of the twitching jigs that are popular lures used to catch coho. Water levels have come up dramatically with the recent rain, and casting spinners may reduce the number of hangups compared to bouncing heavy twitching jigs in the river. This week's photo was taken on the opening day of the coho season on the Icicle River.

One of the things that I like do this time of year is to travel to Keller on Lake Roosevelt. There is a federal park there, with very good access to the water below the marina and boat launch. Some of these accesses have picnic tables and garbage cans, and there are vault toilets nearby. The reason I drive such a distance is the trout fishing. It is no secret that Lake Roosevelt is loaded with triploid rainbow trout. Most years there are about 700,000 of them released into the lake from net pens located at different spots along the shore. This is easy fishing, too. I just cast a sliding sinker rig with a hook baited with either a shrimp and marshmallow combo or my favorite color of Power Bait. I fish two rods and after I have them set into a holder I sit back and wait for the rod tip to start bouncing. There have been days when I only get one fish, and there are other days when my friend and I get our limits of five fish each in about two hours. The trout range in size from about 15 inches to over 20 inches in length, and they average around 16 inches. This is a great way to spend a fall or winter day when not much else is going on. To reach the Federal Park and the accesses, drive to Keller Ferry. To get to Keller, take Highway 2 out of Coulee Dam. After crossing the wheat fields, you will go down a steep winding road. This road is kept plowed throughout the winter. Just before you get to the ferry dock and the marina and boat launch, look to your left. You will see a sign to the park and a gravel road that will lead you to the shore.

I am going to try to squeeze in as many trips as possible in the Bob Feil Boats and Motors Smoker Craft before it snows too much in Leavenworth. High on my list of destinations is Rufus Woods Reservoir. As you know I have already made a few trips to the net pens this fall, but I still need to stockpile more triploids for the smoker. I can't believe how fast this stuff disappears from my freezer. There is no better way to put some of these delicious triploids in the boat than launching at the middle net pens at the Colville site and then making the quick run up to the upper pens with the Mercury 250. When I deploy the Minn Kota below the pens, I can usually see good numbers of fish on the Garmin fish finder, and it usually doesn't take too long before I get a bite on the Power Bait that I have dropped to the bottom. Although I have had to deal with an almost slack current on recent trips, I have still been able to catch my fish. Another destination I want to spend some time at is Moses Lake. I also like to have a good supply of perch filets in the freezer, too, and Moses Lake should be a great place to get some.

I am still holding out hope for a steelhead season on the upper Columbia this year. When I last checked the steelhead counts over Priest Rapids Dam, it showed as of the 21st of last month there were 9,055 that had passed over the dam. According to my source with the WDFW we need at least 9,550, and at least 1,300 wilds. Although the number of fish passing over the dam is down to a trickle, they are still coming, and we have more than enough wilds in the mix. What the heck. I am going to get my gear ready. I made a huge mistake last year when I just grabbed my favorite rod and reel and hit the door. I figured the fancy braid I had loaded on my reel wouldn't deteriorate stored in my dark garage. My logic cost me a terrific fish. The memory of that fish flashing below my bobber and taking off upriver and jumping three feet out of water will be with me forever. When my line broke, so did my heart. Everything is going to be replaced. I am not going to lose another steelhead due to my neglect. They are just too precious.

November GARDENING TIPS

Master Gardeners of Spokane County

TOOLS

This is a good time to clean your hand tools. Remove all dirt and rust from the metal, sand and repaint wooden handles. Store in a dry location for the winter.

BULBS

As long as the ground has not frozen, you can plant spring bulbs directly into the garden. Follow instructions on bulb packaging for depth of planting & provide a mulch cover over the top of newly planted bulbs to prevent heaving.

TREES & SHRUBS

Continue to water your trees and shrubs until the ground freezes. Tie up or trim back branches of loosely branched Evergreens. Pull mulch away from trunks to prevent rodents from hiding and eating the bark.

HOUSEPLANTS

Check plants that have summered outside for pests frequently. Reduce your rate of watering to allow for slower growth and do not fertilize until spring. Plant forced bulbs (paperwhites, amaryllis) now for winter interest.

"Going fast is your job...Telling people about it is ours...!"

LARSON TAKES CUP TITLE AS BLANEY WINS SHOCKER AT PHOENIX

By Reid Spencer, NASCAR Wire Service

Kyle Larson, driver of the #5 HendrickCars.com Chevrolet, sons, Cooper Larson and Owen Larson and daughter Audrey Larson celebrate in victory lane in Avondale, Arizona. NASCAR photo

AVONDALE, Ariz. (November 2, 2025) — When William Byron hit the Turn 3 wall with bone-jarring impact on Lap 310 of Sunday's NASCAR Cup Series Championship Race, the gut punch it delivered to Denny Hamlin was exponentially more painful.

The resulting caution and strategic call by crew chief Cliff Daniels allowed Kyle Larson to snatch the Cup Series championship from Hamlin without leading a lap at Phoenix Raceway.

Larson finished third behind race winner Ryan Blaney and Brad Keselowski to claim his second title in NASCAR's top division and the 15th for team owner Rick Hendrick as the highest finisher among the Championship 4 drivers—Hamlin, Byron and Chase Briscoe.

It was the 15th Cup championship for team owner Rick Hendrick, and it came with a major plot twist in the final stage.

With the scheduled 312 laps winding down, Hamlin led Byron by nearly three seconds and appeared headed for the first Cup title in his 20 full-time seasons behind the wheel of the No. 11 Joe Gibbs Racing Toyota.

In dominating fashion, Hamlin led seven times for 207 laps. Though he battled a balky clutch and rallied from a flat left-rear tire after winning the second stage, he failed to win the championship for the fifth time under the elimination Playoff format.

Instead, it was Larson who went to Victory Lane to receive the Bill France Cup, almost in disbelief.

"Honestly, I can't believe it," Larson said. "Like, we didn't lead a lap today. Somehow won the championship. I mean, really, I'm just speechless. I can't believe it. We had an average car at best."

Larson got the confidence he needed on the first two-tire call under caution on Lap 281. He restarted second beside Briscoe and was able to maintain fifth place before Byron hit the wall.

"Again, just unbelievable. I cannot believe it. This is insane."

Doubtless, Hamlin would agree. He and his team brought the fastest car to Phoenix and executed a near-flawless race. The clutch issue and flat left-rear tire were challenges the No.11 team overcame without panicking.

But the championship eluded Hamlin once again.

"Did the best I could," Hamlin said. "Everything I really prepared for happened today. I felt like we responded. Even losing track position at one point, just battling back. Did really well on restarts. Hadn't been good on restarts for the bulk of the year."

Blaney's win was almost an afterthought, but it also was tantalizingly close to a second championship for the driver of the No. 12 Team Penske Ford. Blaney finished second to Byron in a must-win situation last Sunday at Martinsville Speedway—one spot away from qualifying for the Championship 4.

Blaney led 20 laps in securing his fourth win of the season and the 17th of his career. The win was his first at Phoenix after three straight runner-up finishes in the Championship Race. In 2023, however, second place was good enough to earn Blaney his only series title to date.

How to Spot, Avoid & Report FAKE CHECK SCAMS

Fake checks might look like business or personal checks, cashier's checks, money orders, or a check delivered electronically. Here's what to know about fake check scams.

In a fake check scam, a person you don't know asks you to deposit a check. It's usually for more than they owe you, and it's sometimes for several thousand dollars. They tell you to send some of the money back to them or to another person. They always have a good story to explain why you can't keep all the money. They might say they need you to cover taxes or fees for a prize, to buy supplies for a job, to send back money they overpaid, or something else. But this is a scam.

Why Do These Scams Work?

These scams work because fake checks generally look just like real checks, even to bank employees. They are often printed with the names and addresses of legitimate financial institutions. They may even be real checks written on bank accounts that belong to someone whose identity has been stolen. It can take weeks for a bank to figure out that the check is a fake.

Fake Checks and Your Bank

By law, banks have to make deposited funds available quickly, usually within two days. When the funds are made available in your account, the bank may say the check has "cleared," but that doesn't mean it's a good check. Fake checks can take weeks to be discovered and untangled. By that time, the scammer has any money you sent, and you're stuck paying the money back to the bank.

Your best bet: Don't rely on money from a check unless you know and trust the person you're dealing with.

How To Avoid a Fake Check Scam

Never use money from a check to send gift cards, money orders, cryptocurrency, or to wire money to anyone who asks you to. Many scammers demand that you buy gift cards and send them the PIN numbers, buy cryptocurrency and transfer it to them, or send money through wire transfer services like Western Union or MoneyGram. Once you do, it's like you've given them cash. It's almost impossible to get it back.

Toss offers that ask you to pay for a prize. If it's free, you shouldn't have to pay to get it. Only scammers will ask you to pay to collect a "free" prize. Don't accept a check for more than the selling price. You can bet it's a scam.

Report Fraud

If you think you've been targeted by a fake check scam, report it to:

- The Federal Trade Commission
- The U.S. Postal Inspection Service
- Your State Attorney General

JAMIE ALLEN
2025 HANGRY'S BUMP TO PASS - STATELINE SPEEDWAY

This is Jamie Allen's first championship and "I couldn't be more excited for my friends, crew and fans that cheer me on," he wrote in an email. "We are looking forward to the 2026 season and have a few new things in the works."

Allen has been racing for 25 years at Stateline Speedway. He originally started working at the track when he was 15. "I would drive out in the Ford Courier pickup and sweep up after crashes and motor blow ups," he said.

"I was immediately addicted and built my first racecar, a 1979 Honda Civic for the Roadrunner class," Allen said. "I have raced several classes from demo derbys to late models."

He always wanted to race in the bump to pass class as many of Allen's friends raced that class. So with a little work, he did just that.

"I had a Monte Carlo sitting in my yard for several years with the intention of building it," Allen explained. "I went with my family to a Boat race, saw the carnage, and knew that's what I wanted to do."

Over the winter prior to the 2023 race season he built the car which also led to building his brother a car as well.

"We had a great first season trying to figure it all out," Allen said. "In the 2024 opening boat race I went a little too hard on a boat and smacked the wall head on, causing me to break my hand and severe damage to the car."

He spent the next year getting the car dialed in and was able to pull out some wins in the 2025 season including winning the final boat race of the season which secured the championship.

FORCE, HAGAN, GLENN, HERRERA GET PLAYOFF WINS AT VEGAS
From NHRA Media

LAS VEGAS (Nov. 2, 2025) – In her final appearance at The Strip at Las Vegas Motor Speedway, Brittany Force powered past Shawn Langdon in the final round on Sunday at the 25th annual Dodge NHRA Nevada Nationals powered by Direct Connection, winning for the 19th time in her career.

Matt Hagan (Funny Car), Dallas Glenn (Pro Stock) and Gaige Herrera (Pro Stock Motorcycle) also won the 19th of 20 races during the 2025 NHRA Mission Foods Drag Racing Series season and the fifth of six races in the Countdown to the Championship playoffs.

Force went 3.704-seconds at 337.33 mph in her 12,000-horsepower Chevrolet Accessories dragster, holding off Langdon's run of 3.727 at 333.91 to pick up her second victory in 2025 and her fifth career win in Las Vegas. It brought out a roar from the crowd as Force, who announced her retirement from full-time racing at the end of the season, looks to close the season in style.

She qualified No. 1, setting the track speed record on Friday, and then knocked off Clay Millican and Tony Stewart on Sunday to face off against Langdon. It gives her back-to-back fall wins at Las Vegas, adding another special memory to her standout career.

"This win is a special one," Force said. "This race is now something more than any other race, because of that number 19, lining it up as the winningest female driver in Top Fuel makes it more special."

In Funny Car, four-time world champion Matt Hagan stayed alive in the title chase with a spectacular performance in Vegas, including a weekend-best run of 3.877 at 327.03 in his 12,000-horsepower American Rebel Beer Dodge/SRT Hellcat to defeat points leader Austin Prock in the final round.

With Prock on the verge of clinching, Hagan and his Tony Stewart Racing team made sure it wouldn't take place in Vegas, turning in an epic day, making two runs of 3.87 to stay alive. The victory over Prock gave Hagan his third victory of the season and 55th in his standout career.

"I think we made [the points race] interesting," Hagan said. "Nobody really expected us to win or them to smoke the tires, or anything like that. But we just went up there and said, 'This is what we think the track can hold and run the best that we can,' and I was up on the wheel and got a good light."

There was no Las Vegas slump this weekend for Pro Stock points leader Dallas Glenn, who was picture-perfect, taking the win for the eighth time this season after defeating Matt Hartford in the championship round with a run of 6.602 at 206.61 in his RAD Torque Systems Chevrolet Camaro.

It was the weekend Glenn needed, as he defeated Dave Connolly, 10-time Vegas winner Erica Enders and then Anderson en route to the finals.

"This is very satisfying," Glenn said. "Coming in with a very similar points lead to last year where I had to sit and watch that lead go to negative."

Back-to-back Pro Stock Motorcycle world champion Gaige Herrera had a flawless weekend when he needed it most, capping off an impressive three days with his third straight victory in Las Vegas.

It gives Herrera his seventh victory this season and 28th in his career, and with a third straight championship on the line, he pulled to within 21 points of teammate and points leader Richard Gadson. That's less than one round of racing at the In-N-Out Burger NHRA Finals in Pomona, setting up what could be an incredible finale.

"This couldn't have gone any better," Herrera said. "Me and my teammate [Gadson], facing off in the semis, with him in the points lead, so I needed him to go out to get a little closer."

The NHRA Mission Foods Drag Racing Series returns to action on Nov. 13-16 with the final race of the season, the 60th annual In-N-Out Burger NHRA Finals at In-N-Out Burger Pomona Dragstrip.
